Yesterday

In September 1943, about three hundred students embarked on a four-year flight in the super-airship, Burlington High School. Our destination: Graduation, to be reached after much shedding of blood, sweat and tears. Our pilot on the first leg of the flight was Irwin Glenn. Other officers were: co-pilot, Ed Ballard; hostess, Barbara White; and navigator, Earl Massey. Directing the trip were Superintendent L. E. Spikes, Principal James A. Gerow, and the high school faculty.

Highlights of the year were the Victory Corps and WBHS, our radio program presided over by master-of-ceremonies James A. (Harry James) Gerow. The going began to get tough for several passengers, who either got off at the first stop or parachuted to earth between fields. The majority, however, were resolved to see it through and to receive the reward, a sheepskin to be presented to each passenger at the final landing-field.

In the fall of 1944, after a long and much-needed rest, about two hundred seventy students returned to continue the trip. This time the pilot was Ed Ballard, and the other officers were Barbara Mangum, Mary Elizabeth Lindley, and C. T. Foster. We sometimes didn't quite know whether we were sophomores or juniors, as we had sophomore subjects and junior activities. Our trip was made sad during this year by the death of our beloved cheer leader and fellow-student, Ray Jarrett. He left us on February 19, 1945.

In the spring sixteen of our members were inducted into the National Honor Society and several, after a week of pain, were taken into the Hi-Y or the Monogram Club. Again Mr. Gerow's radio programs kept us laughing, although the boys did lose the battle of the sexes. (I'm sure that was an accident.) In May, after much planning under the able direction of Miss Lela Aycock, we gave the Seniors a Prom which they should long remember. Again we rested between trips, this time to come back as Juniors in the Senior chapel seats.

Back again, and didn't we feel big! There was no one to be looked up to by underclassmen except our class. Whoops! Our balloon was suddenly deflated by loads of homework. This was to be a year of work. There was no Prom, no Move-up Day, and no DOE-WAH-JACK.

Student Council officers included Irwin Glenn as president and Max Isley as vice president. We were proud to receive our class rings, and there was plenty of time to lose them before graduation. Editor of the Barker was John Howard Sykes; and athletic stars of our class included Bill Barger, Earl Wrightenberry, and Bud Pickard in football and Herman Mason, Max Isley, Bill Johnston, and Bill Aldridge in basketball. In June we began our vacation before the last lap of the journey.

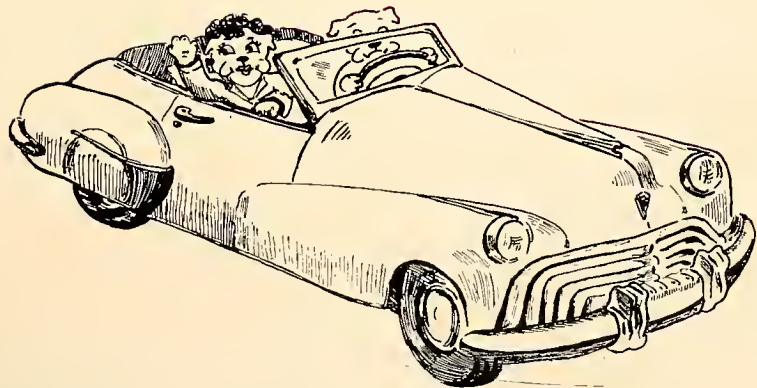

In September 1946, two hundred thirty students boarded the plane for the destination. Our officers were Mary Elizabeth Lindley, Ed Ballard, Marion Chapman, and Ruth Simpson. President of the Student Council was Bill Aldridge and vice president was Jimmy Sartin. Our new principal was Mr. C. C. Linnemann. We really had a top-notch football team, Bobby Stutts making All-Southern and Nick Long playing in the Shrine game at Charlotte. The editor of the Barker was Marian Tickle and of the DOE-WAH-JACK, Barbara White. Dick Barnwell was National Honor Society president, and Curtis Jordan was president of the Hi-Y.

Toward the end of the year time seems to fly. The Prom, Move-up Day, and Class Day pass; and we are at last at Commencement. Goodbye to B.H.S. It's been a swell trip!

JOE ALLEN, Historian.

CLASS POEM

THE SENIOR SPEAKS

Now, as I look back o'er the years,
My head isn't hanging,
My eyes aren't filled with tears,
My soul doesn't have an ardent desire to stay and Never to venture away.

No, because deep down in my heart I know
That I must go on
As all things so,
As those before me have gone.

As I sit dreaming of the past
And recall downcast
Those years of learning so swiftly flown,
How different they might have been,
Had I but known.

Those past years were wonderful, it's true
I was happy and knew nothing that would make me sad;
But as the years grew shorter, and I grew older, I knew.
Remember this, you junior lad.

My thoughts are interrupted now,
The exam is before me—I must begin to write.
It's going to be hard, awfully hard, and how!
But I'm not worrying, I studied last night.

Because I'm a senior (and I'm not bluffing)
I'm old enough to know
That you can't get something for nothing
No matter where you go.

It called for hard work.
(I might have known)
But I've reached the senior state,
And I'll keep my nose upon the stone
Until I graduate.

JAMES HAYDOCK.

CLASS SONG

(Tune of "Things We Did Last Summer")

The freshmen young and green,
The splendid times we've seen,
How could we e'er forget our previous start,
The times we've had in high school
We will hold so dear to our heart.

The seniors of today—
We'd like to stay that way;
It seems so sad that we will have to part,
The times we've had in high school
We will hold so dear to our heart.

But now those times are gone,
And we must journey on;
We know that we must strive to do our part,
The times we've had in high school
We will hold so dear to our heart.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

NORTH CAROLINA
ALAMANCE COUNTY
Burlington

We, the Senior Class of Burlington High School of above said state, country, and city, in the year nineteen hundred and forty-seven have been the initial class to travel the twelve short years of school life. Therefore, going in a somewhat sound mind and wishing all those who succeed us to profit by all our luxuries, we do hereby ordain and bestow the following as our Last Will and Testament:

ARTICLE I. To the faculty we bequeath our inspiration, high scholarship, ability and good conduct grades to pass along to the Junior class.

ARTICLE II. To Mr. Linnemann we leave our model as superior students and knack for acting like ladies and gentlemen to any class who can completely fill our shoes.

ARTICLE III. To James A. Gerow we present the remembrance of our first three years in high school and we hope that his trumpet will give for others as it did for us.

ARTICLE IV. To the Juniors we gladly yield our comfortable seats (ouch!!) in chapel with the hope that they will remain awake and act like Seniors.

ARTICLE V. To the Freshman and Sophomore classes we proudly leave our school song with the hope that they will promise to learn it perfectly.

ARTICLE VI. Certain individuals do bequeath as follows:

Dick Barnwell and Ben Wiles the troubles of the Republican party to William De Weese.
Tommy De Loache his happy disposition to happy-go-lucky Howard Fogleman.
Bill Phillips his wreckless driving to not quite so experienced Roy Clark.
Bill Aldridge his task of President of the Student Body to anyone who can fill his shoes.
Carl Coley his ability on the dance floor to the shuffling feet of Gerald Pickler.
Unpredictable Joe Allen, mathematical genius, donates his brain to Robert Wall.
Jimmy Sartin his troubles of the Student Store to anyone who can count and recognize money.
Bobby Stutts his football honors and number to Bill Small and Pat Sellars to fight over.
Bill Johnson his indescribable "hee haw" horse laugh to Floyd Foster.
Claudie "Sinatra" Fowler and Nick "Bing" Long their crooning voices to any Junior who can sing "Night and Day" and "White Christmas" at the same time.
Helen Iseley her endless wardrobe and shoe closet to well dressed Betty Brown.
Cartoonist Leonard Lopez his ability with the paint and easel to original Jean Miller.
Hal "Atlas" Johnson his glamorous profile to Carlos Baldwin.
Toby McIntyre his persuading ability to get along with the faculty to Nancy Huffman.
The quiet intelligent attitude of Marion Tickle to any Junior girl who can fulfill her position—probably Murphy Alexander.

C. T. (Curly) Foster clips his flowing curly locks and wills them to DeWard Baldwin.
Jean Kirkman and Dolly Ree Foster their formulas for reducing to Pat Decker with the hope she'll have more success.

Roger Fogleman his wardrobe of sporty coats to any Junior having the like of them.
David Ross his ability to cram English in ten minutes to Hazel Bryan.
June Eisenberg her ability to lead the school cheers to Joan McIntyre.
Barbara White her popularity to Camilla Spikes.
Ann Sherron her natural beauty to Louisa May.
Frances Ann Warren her singing talent to Betty Wiles providing she will practice five hours a day.
Barbara Mangum her "Flirty eyes" and way with the boys to Virginia Coble.
Ed Barrett his witty remarks to unpredictable Billy Williford.
Ruthie Levin her grace and sophistication to Joan Craft.
Ed Ballard his good looks to Coleman Allison.
Nancy Prichett her jitterbug feet to Bettie Smith.
Arnold Ward his heavy weight crown and boxing gloves to Glenn Kilpatrick.
Jimmy Cates his friendly manner and attitudes to Wanda Frederick.
Steve Cole his mechanical fingers to any Junior who can beat out "Boogie Woogie."
Donald "Bird-eye" Black his cuteness and abbreviated profile to Bob "Boo-Boo" Baxter.
Bud Pickard his pep and happy-go-lucky attitude to anyone who can act the same and get by with it.
Gurney Stanfield his "he-mannish" acts to Raymond Petrea.
Marion Chapman her lovable, laughable "Ipana" smile to Alice Creech.
Carl Garrison his witty way of telling jokes to Sharon Black.
Miriam Murray her quiet and gentle ways to Carolyn Fonville.
David Cowan and Ralph Brooks their "one and only" places in the band to Jimmy Qually and anyone else to fight over.
Buddie Burns his job as head major and his ability to do a barn dance on the gridiron to anyone who has the qualities of doing the same.
Donald Walton his way of playing golf and being caddy at the same time to Jimmy Peerson.

IN WITNESS hereof, we have hereunto set our hand and seal, this thirteenth day of May in the year of our Lord 1947.

BOB HOLMES,
Testator.

A TYPICAL DAY AT B.H.S.

A typical day at B.H.S. usually starts with my dashing down the hall and bounding in the door just as the last strains of the tardy bell die away. (That is, if I'm lucky!) Then comes homeroom period which is comparatively dull as I have nothing to do except take the bobby pins out of my hair, put on lipstick, go to the student store, report to the office to see if my last week's tardy was excused, make a poster on the chief railroads of the south, and help Barbara Mangum memorize her French vocabulary. I do all this to the extreme horror of Barbara White, who, incidentally, reacts to the bell as a hunter reacts to fresh tiger tracks. That is, upon hearing the thrilling news that it is ten minutes till the bell rings, she dashes to her desk, closes her books, packs them in a neat pile and starts making plans as to what would be the best way to go to get out of the door. Then she sits and tensing her feet for the spring out of her desk (she has to spring for with all the books she carries, she'd never get to her feet otherwise) waits for that sweet music to chime in her ears. But when the bell rang today I was ready by some miracle and Sara Lee Barker and I proceeded down the hall together. (That is, every now and then I'd see her head bobbing up in front of me somewhere.) You see, every time I decide to change classes, the rest of the school does too, for some strange reason, and therefore, the halls are a little crowded. A little crowded! That's a scream! Between classes those halls are so crowded that unless you happen to have a periscope handy, or are 9'6", you have no earthly idea where you are going. But the tide and Jean Kirkman swept me along, and I managed to catch up with Sara Lee without any other mishap than having my new fountain pen trampled upon, and mashed flatter than my latest algebra grade.

"Gee," she murmured, chewing thoughtfully on her bubble gum, "I crammed so hard for that test last night that I think something is going to pop." And those were the truest words that she ever uttered, for just at that moment my little blue compact that I've cherished and loved and crammed full of junk, decided that enough was enough, and practically leaping out of my pocket, hurled itself down two flights of steel covered steps. With all the gracefulness of a 1923 steam roller, I shoved my beloved books (that's a joke, son) in a corner and chased spiritedly after my fast disappearing powder puff. In the meantime, some thoughtful soul—Tommy Green—namely—knocked the rest of my books down those grisly steel covered steps, and everyone started standing around to see what was going to happen next. I told them what had happened, and they in turn told the ones behind them, and everybody stood around yelling at each other and giving me advice, but not one kindly person offered to help until some little 5'1" character stepped forward and with a sweeping bow began to help a maiden in distress by collecting my history papers. (They were all in one pile and certainly not much trouble, but with a heroic smile on his face, he held forth on his valor, kindness, and general good sense all the while he was picking them up.) I didn't know whether to thank him or give him a tip, but I finally discarded the latter idea and murmured, "Merci, lots and lots," hoping that he couldn't understand the English if he understood the French, and started once more for my class. I never got there because the bell rang again, and I was forced to put myself in reverse and leap hopefully up those two flights of steel covered steps and into my chemistry room where I was greeted by the remains of last period's experiments which nearly knocked me down those darn steps again! (I don't mean to be telling, Berty, but you must admit it was horrible!)

Goodness only knows how I managed to survive that period, but I did and the first thing I knew, there it was time to change classes again. So, I grabbed up my books and the remains of my battered compact and headed for the door and my next class, which, incidentally, was English. Here I was practically bowled over by Shirley Baker, who rushed out and informed me that she had it on strictest confidence from someone who had met someone who knew someone in the third period class that we were going to have a test and did I know who wrote H. G. Wells' Outline of History? I replied that I thought it was H. G. Wells, and collected my scattered nerves and books and went in the classroom.

Well, of course we had a test and of course I forgot who wrote H. G. Wells' Outline of History, but the next period was lunch and I figured that nothing mattered except getting some food to my poor stomach which had been existing on a battered piece of Juicy Fruit since eight o'clock this morning.

After lunch (which incidentally wasn't half as good as my Juicy Fruit) I went to Dramatic Club, where Tommy Deloache was beating his brains (?) out in an effort to look Shakespearean and Roger Fogleman was muttering, "Ah, Romeo, Romeo! Wherefore art thou Romeo?" to Sara Garrett, when Graham White stuck his head in the door and rudely apprehended, "Heah ah is, chile."

Ah, well, time passes and so do the people who study . . . now, where was I? Oh, yes. I was on my way to sixth period. As I stood there in the hall gathering my thoughts and pieces of compact, which had dropped again, who should I see coming down the hall but "Send 'em" Stutts and "Beau Bait" Ballard! I was so embarrassed to be caught with my nose shining that I backed off into the first room handy and crouched behind the door. Naturally, I happened to chose the teachers' room and whom should I bump into but Mr. Ridenhour coming out with my history paper under his arm! I made a hasty retreat, walking all over Marion Tickle on the way, and beat it over to sixth period room, where I sank into the daintily autographed desk that informed me that Kilroy had been here, and settled down to hear Dolly Ree and Miss Wiseman discuss the pros and cons of resonance (now what in the heck does that mean?)

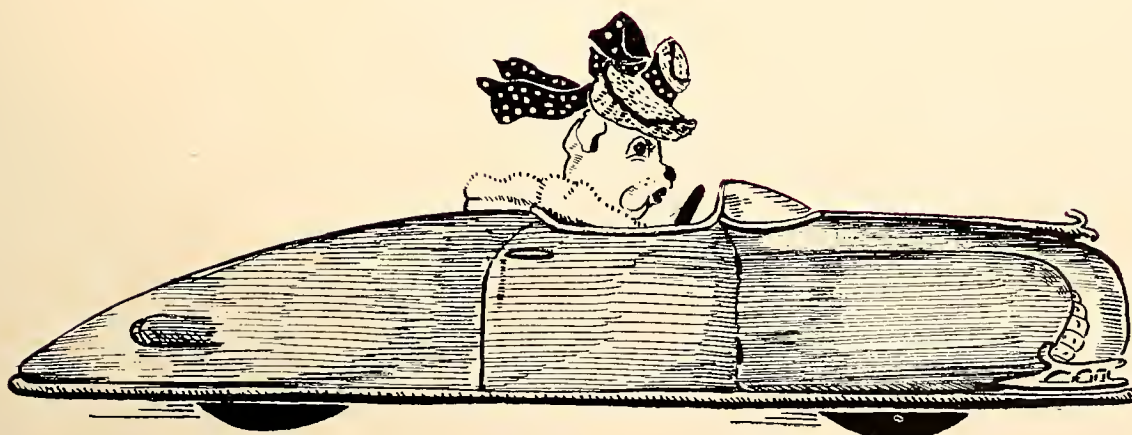

Well, the last bell rang and so did my head with all those "ahs" and "ohs" that we'd been singing for the previous fifteen minutes, but I staggered out, tired but happy! For after all, today was Tuesday and I had four more blissful days to look forward to before Friday came and they made me leave for the week-end. Whom am I kidding!

CLASS PROPHECY

Well, Oswald, Nellie, and little Iodine are finally in bed and Sweetie-Pie just left for the Elk's Club. Maybe now I can get some rest. I feel like it's 1967 instead of 1957. I guess 1811 turn on the television set and see what programs are on. Wait! Don't I know him? Well, sure, that's the chewing gum pest who sat across the isle from me in Geometry. Don't tell me Robert H. Winchell has finally got his place on the air! Let's listen and look to see if he's improved and mellowed with age.

"Good-evening ladies and gentlemen. This is Robert Winchel and your evening sum up of the important happenings today." (Yes, he still has that Connecticut accent.)

First on the program of tonight I should like to have you go with me to a premiere here on Broadway.. It's the first showing of that celebrated picture, "The Broken Axle." The stars of the picture are Tyrone (Bill) Shaw and everyone's leading lady, Marion C. Grable.

Yes, tonight is a big night in a lot of respects. Let's stand among the crowd and see what celebrities we can meet. Here comes that dynamic bundle of Latin-American womanhood, June E. Moranda. With her is a very handsome new star, Erwin G. Peck.

Not far behind these two is that bobby-sockers' idol, Van (Bill) Johnston. He is escorting his bride, Sarah Wolfe, star in the picture, "Lil' Abner and the Wolf Girl."

The scenery takes a western swing as Roy Rogers approaches. Wonder where "Trigger" is? From the smile on Donald Walton's face, head of the meat department in the chain of Swan Stores, I can imagine (meat shortage, you know).

Some leading diplomats are attending this premiere, too. Richard B. Roosevelt is here with his shadow, Max Isley. Roosevelt is democratic candidate for president. The beautiful Mrs. Roosevelt is accompanying her famous husband. By the way folks, it has just been released from Campaign Headquarters that Bill Aldridge Dewey will oppose Roosevelt in the coming election.

Another notable in the entertainment world is Claudie Sinatra. His manager, Carlton Mangum, is with him tonight. The flock of idlers around him vouches for his popularity. Some familiar ones I see are Jean Davis, Juanita Cameron, Charlotte Ferguson, Lessie Dallas, Val Crutchfield, Helen Coble, Nancy Long, Elba Richmond, Dickie Campbell, Loraine Dunn, Lois Haney, Lucy Wilson, Juanita St. John, Evelyn Scamon, Clara Vereen and Beverly Wilson.

Let's get away from this shoving crowd and to another spot of activity. Here in "Radio City" it looks like old home week. In quartet for his band is Arnold Ward, Bud Pickard, Ed Barrett, and Bill Mitchell. They play the juice harp, guitar, banjo, and bass fiddle respectfully. Other familiar faces are those of Donald Black, Norman Rackley, Richard Sharpe, Jimmy Cheek and Jimmy Brockman.

The red light's blinking in Studio B. Can my ears be deceiving me? Really, it's the "Grand Ole Operie" and Minnie Pearl has finally had to bow to her superior, Gurney Stanfield. His very able assistants are Granpappy (Curtis) Saul and Junior (John H. Sykes). Other members of the gang are Keith Crabtree, Edward Ejerck, Bessie Parrish, Minnie Wood, Nellie Simpson, Harold Campbell, Bobby Harrison, Thomas Qualls, Aubrey Amick, Bill Angel, Bill Stanfield, Eugene Watson and Homer Richardson.

A new program has been added this season. It's called "Listening In." Each morning Miss Betty Lou Mitchell brings her tried and proven recipes to thousands of house wives over the country. She has in her experimental kitchens as chief cooks Pat Workman, Sarah, Knott, Betty J. Gibbs, and Sarah Barker. They got their experience at a summer resort, "Crabtree Creek."

Tonight is opera night in Radio City. The program comes from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House. The famous lyric soprano, Doris Terrell is starred tonight in the opera "She Does and She Doesn't." Co-starring with her is the famed baritone James Williams Melchior. Incidentally the opera season is fortunate in having quite a number of stars at the Met. Among them are Frances W. Hodgkin. She is returning to the stage after her four months' honeymoon in Bermuda. Her husband is the producer of stage and screen, Dewey Hodgkin.

Also at the Met is Millie Fogleman. She had her debut here last season and rated well with the critics. Ethel Russell is named one of the greatest finds of 1957.

In the orchestra here we find two outstanding pianists, Bettie F. Compton and Bill Nall. They are among the best in any field.

We'll travel down to studio C. This is the "King Cole" orchestra's last night's performance before they begin their tour. King Cole is the talented Steve Cole. He has some of the best players in any orchestra. Some are Carl Coley, "Bernie" Williams Earl Bolick, David Cowan, Buddy Burns, John Daniels, Ralph Brooks, Bill King, Harold Stephens, Bobby Joe Rudd, Harold Smith, Wallace Butler, Bobby Hensley, Jack Oakley, Otis Simmons and James Sartin.

King Cole also features the "Rosy Three." They are Dolly Foster, Jean Kirkman, and Pearl Garrison.

Variety is the spice of life so let's take a jolly cruise to Coney Island. There is quite a crowd here. As we enter the fairway we hear Tom DeLoache foretelling the wonders within. On our right is the exciting show of thrills "The Johnson's Motor Thrills." Hal himself, now 6 feet four inches tall, is the star performer.

Next is the freak show. First is "Gopher" Blackwood. Always was a mystery how that happened! Also the world's heavyweight female, Jean Moser who tips the scales at 310 pounds. In the booth next to her is the bearded lady, Mildred (the) Beard. The main attraction of this side show is the "Lady of Steel," Bessie no less.

On the race track we find two of our classmates who finally found an appropriate place for their speeding. Bill Phillips is the current winner of the "Speed Demon" trophy, with Roger Fogleman runner-up.

The side show at the far end of the midway seems to be drawing quite a crowd. The neon sign is flashing, "The Rockettes." The score of girls giving a preview of the wonders to be seen inside includes Shirley Baker, Betty Jean Black, Doris Branson, Sarah Garret, Ann Sherron, Betty Beck, Betty Caulder, Maxine Abercrombie, Becky Garrison, and Frances Drake.

The ice cream wagon is in complete charge of Ed Ballard. Out front is a sign, "Get With Pet." Uhm-mm-m!

Seen milling around in the crowds are the happy Allens. There are Joe and Marion T. with their little geniuses. I do hope they don't get that cotton candy all over them. They are with the Jones, T. L. and Ruth and the brood.

Micky Vaughn is still carrying on her Red Cross work. Her booth seems to be drawing a crowd. It's all painted with red—"Help the Red Cross. Kisses—$1." She has such a booming business she has Ireni Toumaras, Polly Stuckey, Joyce Taylor, Juanita Stevens, Virginia Thomas, Theresa Sykes, Voncille Todd, Berta Kelly, Frances Garrison and Jackie Lynch to help her.

We must leave "Coney Island" and its worlds of interest for a little while now. Go with us now to Columbia University where more brilliant minds are discovered every day. The faculty is the most serious minded and best one the campus has ever had. The math department is composed of Professors George Patterson, Curtis Jordan, David Wicker, and Carl Garrison. The French Department is headed by Earl Harden, Doris Moore, Frank Walker and Nina Wilson. The Sociology Department is under the capable guidance of Harvey Walker, Wayne Mooneyham, Charles Presnell, Bill Love and Henry Harrison. We find at the head of the Law Department that famed mouth-piece, Ben Wiles. Under him are Melvin Smith, the Denny Brothers—Earl and Herman, Bill Euliss, James Faucette and Harold Boswell.

Football—Ah yes! There is lots of news under this heading. Army's roster looks quite familiar. Among those you'll remember well are "Stutts" Davis, Bill Barger Blanchard, Nick Long Tucker, Hubert Bolick, DeRoy Fowler, C. T. Foster, Jimmy Sartin, Reid Tickle, and the team's manager is inevitable—"Tuck." Army also has in its line-up that tackler famous the world over—Toby McElroy.

Something new has been added in colleges all over the country. Universities as well are featuring girl football teams. This year two teams are playing in the "Powder-Puff Bowl." Listed in the lineups are: Cora Clayton, Edna Grayson, Oretta Hobgood, Nadee Goad, Audrey Johnson, Ruth Cameron, Ruth Jones, Betty Pack, Betsy Matthews, Doris Hinton, Elaine Grigg, Elba Kirkley, Jean Dixon, Betty McElroy, Marilyn Seeber, Cordia Smith and Audrey Terrell.

Henry Ford's business has hit the rocks since the new Model cars have been flooding the market. His co-owners in the firm are David Ross, Elmer Thomas, and David Curtis. Specialists in their fields in this money-making business are: Richard Faggart, Tommy Greene, Devoy Hopkins, Clarence Pyrite, Thomas Willoughby, John Nickolson, Paul Stanfield, Charles Raulston, and Thomas Way.

The returns from the Miss America beauty contest just came in. The 1957 queen is that vivacious Mildred Sharpe. Her attendants are: Ruth Simpson, Hazel Swinney, Ella Vanderford, LaWanda Lindsey, Lucille King, Dorothy McCauley, Anna Jean Dixon, Hilda Moser, Joyce Taylor and Miriam Murray. These young ladies are the dream of American Womanhood!

The New York Times features many beautiful pictures on its society pages this week. Pictured leaving the church just after their marriage are Admiral and Mrs. Sherman Pickard. Mrs. Pickard is the former Miss Norma Satterfield.

The announcement of the forthcoming marriage of Juanell Brewer to Dr. James Haydock also appears. Dr. Haydock has just been appointed to the staff at Walter Reed Hospital.

An organization that has put our women on the map is the W.K.S.G. Club. Its meaning is: "We Knit, Sew and Gossip." Its presiding president is Nancy Pritchett. It's an honor to be a member because it takes a choice piece of gossip to pass the initiation. Some of these honored are: Barbara May, Mary E. Lindley, Geraldine Lawson, Margaret Rice, Evelyn Thompson, Peggy Tickle, Annie Mae Poe, Norma Whitesell, Clara Faye Terrell, Eloise Stanford, Ruth Rogers, Edith Payne, Wilda Mebane.

In the literary category a new magazine has attracted world attention. The Esquirette is edited by Miss Barbara White. Her assistant is Geraldine Copeland. The art editor is Betty Henderson. In the make-up department is the girl for whom the "Missing Make-Up" was named, Mary Mac Thomas. Poetry fills the pages of the magazine as it flows from the pen of the famous poet Herman M. Longfellow. Fashions are edited by Helen Isley and designing done by Ruth Levin. The men's fashions are under the guidance of Editor Earl Wrightenberry. His model is, of course, Joe Bell. "Fleecy" Lamb also adds his professional touch to all the men's clothing. Jimmy Cates must have taken his job on the Barker seriously. He is now photography editor of this outstanding magazine. Shoes is Izzy Goldman's department. Eleanor Sharpe is the editor of the section "The Family Needs." Edward Thomas is her assistant, as they both have the inside story. Dorothy Crutchfield has the page on "Spiritual Guidance" and is quite famous in her work.

We have been places and covered ground tonight, ladies and gentlemen. I hope you've enjoyed my visit into your homes. I'll be back with you tomorrow evening. Until then, so-long from your "Needle-Eye Thread's man"—Robert Wienschell.

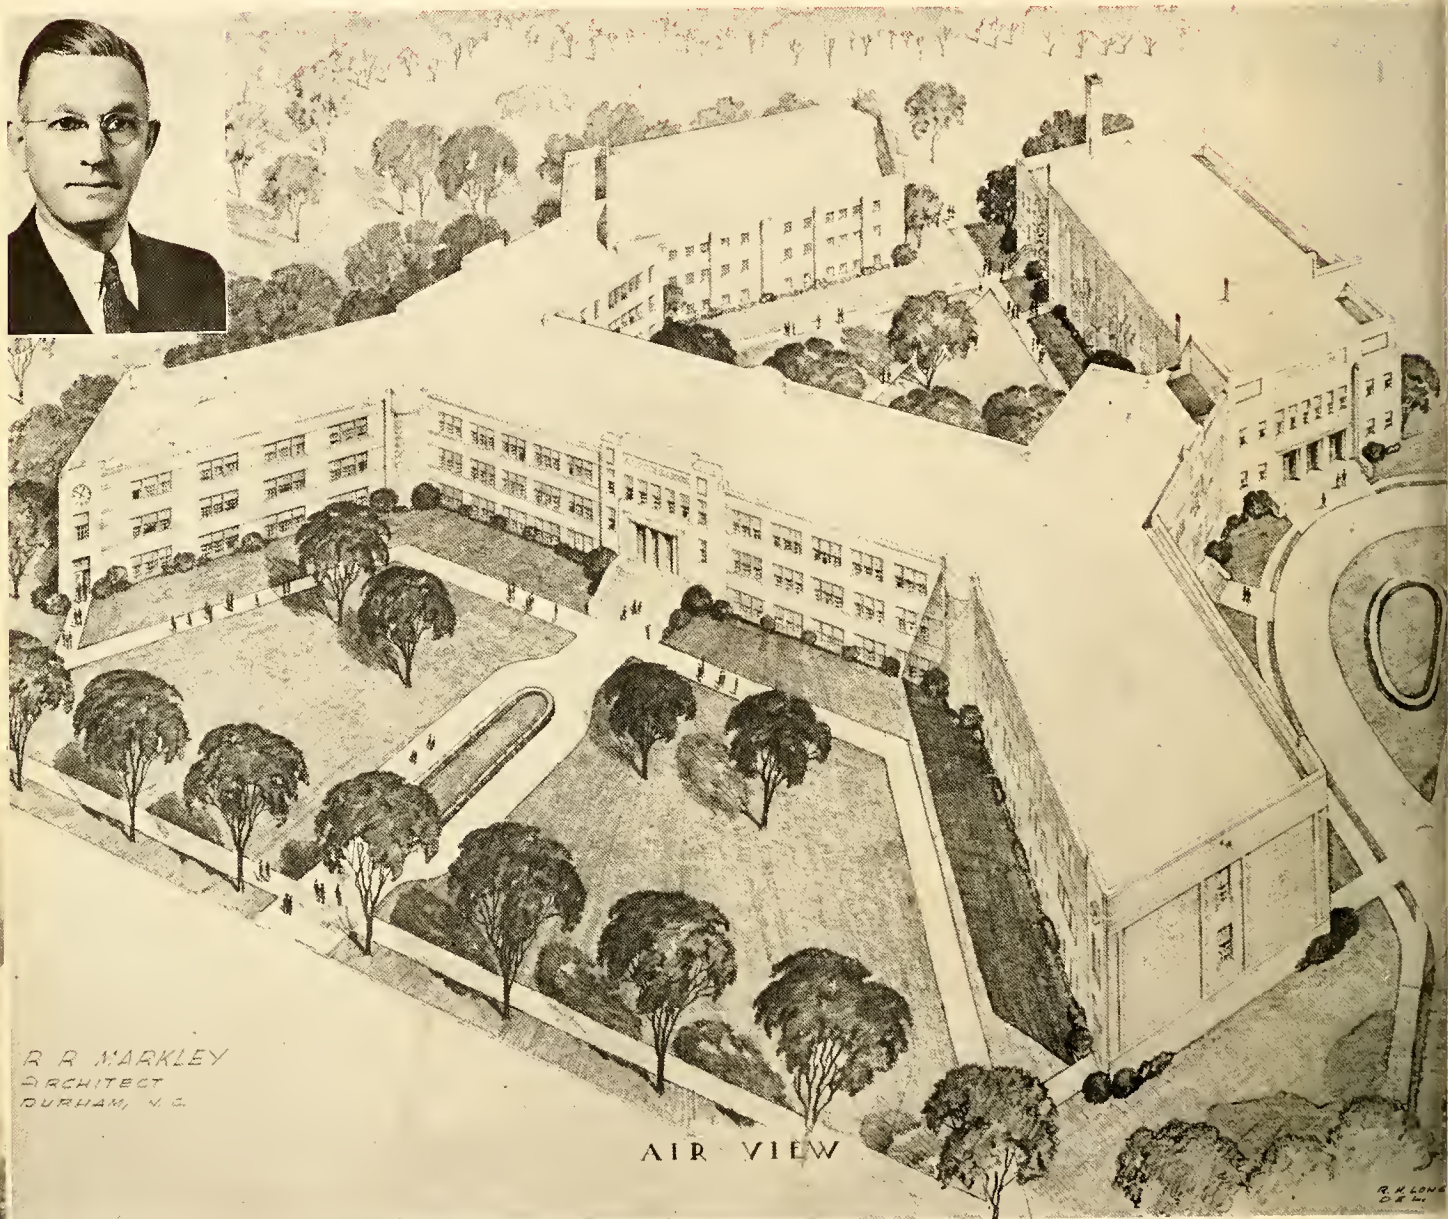

That's that! I've really learned a lot tonight. I'll wind up the cat and put out the clock. No use waiting for Sweetie-Pie.

Good-night all! Pleasant dreams.

BARBARA MANGUM, Prophet.

Jim Byrk,
I'm not going to try to make a fool of myself or to flatter you, but I would like to say that in you with your superior knowledge of everything, I have found the best friend a guy could hope for. Let's always remember the wonderful times we have had together and maybe we'll meet at the Stock Club in the future. What will we be doing then?
Here's luck to the best of guys!
Your sincere friend,
James Byrd
